DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this

Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1,7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Rzepka 1,438,140.

Rzepka teaches a lock housing comprising a first latch bolt 15,17,18, first driver 26, second latch bolt 15,19,20, second driver 28, wherein the bolts have front and rear biasing surfaces and the drivers are coaxially mounted with an actuator having a rectangular hub 24.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-6 are allowed.

The prior art of record fails to teach the two latch bolts and drivers in combination with the extension member, adjusting member and pin and clutch mechanism as set forth in claim 2.

4. Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 3676

While several cited patents teach the well known means for providing backset adjustment to accommodate differently sized lock housings (note, for example, Fan Lu et al 6,443,503, Glass et al 4,602,490), there would have been no motivation or suggestion to provide the latch set of Rzepka with such an extension means absent improper hindsight.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the various clutch mechanisms for latch bolts and backset adjustment means of the cited prior art.
